

PRESIDENT SIGNS THE CANAL BILL

Answers Objections That It Violates Treaty With England.
BRITAIN WILL PROTEST
Taft Contents Congress Has Right to Let U. S. Ships Pass Free.
PRAISES MEASURE HIGHLY
Most Beneficial Ever Passed by Any Congress, He Declares.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—President Taft signed the Panama Canal bill to-night. This means that the question of free trade to American coastwise ships will be protested by Great Britain and that the case will be carried to The Hague. It means also that the Southern Pacific Railroad will have to abandon its plan to establish a $22,000,000 line of boats from New York to the Orient and that the New York, New Haven and Hartford and other railroad lines will be obliged to divert themselves of their steamship holdings.

The President gives it as his opinion that the bill does not violate the treaty with Great Britain and that it is one of the most beneficial measures that have passed this or any other Congress. He explains his action on the bill. Here it is in part:

In signing the Panama Canal bill I wish to leave this memorandum. The bill is admirably drawn for the purpose of securing the proper maintenance, operation and control of the canal and the government of the canal zone and for the furnishing of the canal to the commerce of the world. It is a measure of the highest importance to the United States, and it is one of the most beneficial measures that have passed this or any other Congress. It is a measure of the highest importance to the United States, and it is one of the most beneficial measures that have passed this or any other Congress.

The British protest involves the right of the United States to regulate its domestic and foreign commerce in such manner as to the Congress may seem wise, and specifically the protest challenges the right of the United States to exempt American shipping from the payment of tolls for the use of the Panama canal, or to refund to such American ships the tolls which they may have paid, and this without regard to the fact that the tolls are employed for the maintenance of the canal.

The protest states "the proposal to exempt American shipping from the payment of the tolls would, in the opinion of the United States, be a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and it is the policy of the United States to maintain the integrity of that treaty." The United States, however, maintains that the tolls are for the maintenance of the canal, and that the exemption of American shipping is a matter of domestic policy.

The United States adopts as the basis of the canal bill the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which was signed in 1903. The treaty provides that the canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations under similar flag, on equal terms of tonnage, and that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or other matters.

The United States also maintains that the tolls are for the maintenance of the canal, and that the exemption of American shipping is a matter of domestic policy.

AIRSHIP FALLS INTO RARITAN.

R. J. Collier's Aviator and Passenger Found Swimming.
One man was severely injured and another badly bruised and cut when a hydroaeroplane in which they were returning from Keansburg to Red Bank, N. J., was wrecked yesterday afternoon. The machine landed in the Raritan River and this in all probability saved both men from being killed.

One of the men is in the Monmouth Memorial Hospital, where it is said he may be internally injured. The other occupant of the machine, although bruised and cut, was attended by a physician and went to his home.

In the machine were James Hubbard, a garage owner of Red Bank, and O. G. Simmons, employed as an aviator by Robert J. Collier, whose country estate is at Wickham, N. J. Hubbard, who is in the hospital, has a bad gash in the head, his right ear is nearly torn off and he also suffers from minor injuries, possibly internal. Simmons escaped with scratches and cuts about the head, face and body. He was attended by Dr. Drooley and taken to Mr. Collier's estate.

Simmons had been giving exhibitions at the Keansburg Carnival for the last few days. To-day he stopped at Red Bank on his way to Keansburg and took Mr. Hubbard in as a passenger. They reached Keansburg in safety and watched the baby parade at that place. Then they started on their return trip.

The machine was about 500 feet in the air when the propeller shaft got out of gear and the machine started to drop rapidly. Simmons shut off the engine and, making a quick turn, volplaned, landing in Raritan Bay.

The two men succeeded in disentangling themselves and were swimming when members of the Keansburg life saving station hurried out to their assistance and rescued them.

The wrecked machine will be taken from the bottom of the bay. Simmons believes it can be repaired.

OLIPHANT'S YACHT ON FIRE.

Boat Beached and Party of Twelve Rescued Unharmed.
ALEXANDRIA BAY, Aug. 24.—The yacht Cheemaun, with its owner, J. Norris Oliphant of New York, Mrs. Oliphant and a party of twelve aboard, took fire near St. Lawrence Park this afternoon. To save her the boat was beached on the rocks opposite the resort. None of the passengers were injured, although some of the women were badly frightened.

The Cheemaun was cruising from Mr. Oliphant's summer home toward Clayton when fire was discovered in the engine room. The captain signalled for the boat to be stopped, but the heat was so intense that the machinery was unable to reach the engine. The captain then beached the yacht, the passengers were disembarked and the flames were extinguished. The engine room was wrecked. The rest of the boat was little damaged.

A regatta was in progress and the docks were crowded with spectators. A score of boats put out to the assistance of the Cheemaun. Mrs. C. R. Remington sent out a boat laden with firefighting apparatus, but the fire was extinguished before it arrived.

The women were taken to the bungalow of Ernest B. Rubsam of Summit, N. J.

NEWPORT TO BE CLEANEST CITY.

Man Who Conducted Survey Makes a Prediction.
NEWPORT, Aug. 24.—"Newport will yet be one of the cleanest cities in the United States," said Carol Aronoff of Providence, who had charge of the survey made here last year. In speaking to-day of the new Law Enforcement League that has been formed here, with C. W. Gould of New York as secretary, Mr. Aronoff said:

"The credit for the improvement will be due to the men and women as well as to the Law Enforcement League and survey committee. I have reported conditions which I have found. This was my work. The incidental cleanup was not the main feature of the work of my bureau. Now the work of constructive reform must follow, and I have every reason to believe that it will follow."

This organization will get results. Putting it up to the Mayor is not a new idea, but the method to be pursued will strike the Mayor as rather new and effective.

GERALDINE FARRAR ILL.

Reaches Munich to Undergo Treatment for Stomach Poisoning.
Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
MUNICH, Aug. 24.—Geraldine Farrar, the prima donna, arrived here to-day and will undergo strict treatment by a specialist.

She is suffering from the effects of poisoning sustained several years ago.

SHOOT GIRL WHO JILTED HIM.

Young Man Then Attempts Suicide on a Hartford Street.
HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 24.—Joseph Cathold lay in a hospital in Windsor avenue to-day and shot down Ida Marret, 18 years old, who had rejected his suit and had even warned the police last Sunday that she feared Cathold might make good his threats to get even with her for humiliating him.

Hundreds of people saw the young man fire point blank. The girl fell at the first shot and Cathold turned the revolver on himself. At St. Francis Hospital to-night the physicians believed he would die from a wound near his heart. The girl will recover.

At the time she was shot she was walking in front of a fire engine house and her father was coming down Windsor avenue, 500 yards behind her. The firemen rushed to her aid and tried to prevent Cathold firing the second bullet into his own body.

Gambling Cleanup in Portugal.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
LISBON, Aug. 24.—The authorities raised a gambling den at Chaves, Portugal. Chaves is crowded with smugglers and bandits. Forty-three arrests were made and 162,500 pesetas ($32,500) in money seized.

GYP THE BLOOD REPORTED CAUGHT

Pike County, Pa., Sheriff Keeps Prisoner for Detectives.
BURNS ON WAY THERE
Whitman Telephones Order to Send Sleuths on First Train.
BECKER'S STOCK TRADING
Politician Says Lieutenant Made Money That Way, but Latter Won't Talk.

Sheriff Cuddebeck of Pike county in the northeastern corner of Pennsylvania, asked THE SUN over the long distance telephone last night to tell the police here that he has in his custody a young man who, he believes, is Harry Horowitz, alias Gyp the Blood, wanted as one of the slayers of Herman Rosenthal.

"I picked up the man near Greeley, Pike county, this afternoon," said the Sheriff. "When I arrested him he would not admit to me who he was, but he denies he is Gyp the Blood. He answers to the police description of Gyp, and I think I have the right man. Please," pleaded the Sheriff, who seemed to be much stirred up with excitement, "have some one in THE SUN office tell the New York police about the arrest right away and tell them to send detectives on right quick to identify the man."

Detective William J. Burns received from a reporter at a late hour last night the first news of the probable arrest of Gyp the Blood by Sheriff Cuddebeck. When Mr. Burns was told that District Attorney Whitman had telephoned this paper from Manchester, Vt., requesting that he be assisted in his efforts to get in touch with Mr. Burns, he at once announced that he would go to Pike county himself.

"I shall start for Pike county right away," Mr. Burns said. "I will have a talk over the telephone with Sheriff Cuddebeck and then will catch the first train to-night."

Police headquarters took sufficient interest in the news offered to them to say that the detective bureau would try to get in communication with Sheriff Cuddebeck by telephone last night. Just before midnight headquarters detectives reported that they had tried to talk with Sheriff Cuddebeck, but that the telephone connection was so poor that they could not understand him. They decided to wait for telegraph information from the Sheriff before taking immediate action.

Sheriff Cuddebeck's reason for making the arrest, he said, was because of the close resemblance of the prisoner to the published photographs and descriptions of Gyp the Blood. The Pike county official was seemingly too excited to go into much detail of the arrest. Deputy Sheriff Doyle said that he had come across the man near Greeley he had immediately grabbed him and had hurried with his prisoner to Lackawaxen, Pa., where he expected to find awaiting him and his prisoner some one from New York who was to identify the man. Much of the Sheriff's excitement last night seemed to be due to the fact that when he arrived at Lackawaxen those who he had thought would be ready to make the identification failed to appear.

MAN HUNT ON J. D.'S ESTATE.

Three Bandits, Who Held Up Italian, Sought by Detectives.
TARRYTOWN, Aug. 24.—Armed deputies are searching Pocomtoco Hills and the Zoro area for three men who held up a man on Monday night. Deputy Sheriff Nossiter went to New York this morning with two of the victims and with the aid of New York detectives expects to make more arrests.

Sheriff Doyle's deputies, reinforced by the deputies from the Rockefeller estate, are tramping the woods hoping to arrest the highwaymen.

The bandits are supposed to be members of the Black Hand who come out to Pocomtoco Hills and prey upon the 400 Italians employed on the Rockefeller estate.

SCHWAB ROBBED ON TRAIN.

Thief Believed to Have Taken $2,000 From Berth.
LORETO, Pa., Aug. 24.—Detectives were at sea to-day over the mysterious disappearance of Charles M. Schwab's wallet while en route from New York to his summer home here last night.

The wallet contained $2,000 and was stolen or lost on a train 35 of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which was en route from New York to Loreto. The thief, who was seen by the train crew, was believed to have taken the wallet from Schwab's berth.

It is thought Schwab may have been followed from New York and the money taken from his berth while he slept.

FINDS RAY WAS FAVORITE.

Report of Army Inquirers Scores Officer, Taft and Stimson.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Major Beecher B. Ray, recently indicted and ranking lieutenant-colonel and ranking member of the army privy council, was severely criticized in a report filed to-day in the House by an investigating committee.

President Taft, Brig.-Gen. Edwards, Secretary of War Stimson and other army heads were scored for alleged favoritism to Ray.

The principal findings of the committee were:

"Major Ray has been engaged in political activity in the interest of the Republican party and particularly in the interest of the President."

"That Major Ray has on at least four occasions been charged with a serious offense, has never been vindicated and has never been disciplined more severely than to be reprimanded."

"That in one case court-martial proceedings were stopped by a telegram from the Chief of Staff without apparent reason; that the papers were stored in a secret place and never produced."

"That Major Ray has been shown more personal consideration in assignment of stations than any other Paymaster in the army and was stationed at Chicago during every Presidential campaign since he has been in the service and was sent there last winter by an order originating from the White House."

"The committee hopes the President may see fit to make public such explanation of the circumstances as will assure the country that the army is not being used for political purposes," says the report.

The report alleges that Major Ray altered vouchers for travel pay for enlisted men and got off with a reprimand.

BURKE TO RETURN WITH WIFE.

Philadelphia Councilman Will Start Life All Over Again.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—William Burke, the Councilman who has been missing from home since he confessed that he was a former convict and "dope" fiend, will return to this city to-morrow from New York with his wife and daughter, ready for the struggle to face the world and start life all over again.

Mrs. Mary Brennan of 2029 Tioga street, Burke's mother-in-law, is authority for the statement that her daughter has been in New York the past week arranging with her husband the details for the homecoming and planning for the future. It is believed that Burke has decided to accept the offer of John A. Fehr, who has said that he was willing to start Burke up in the cigar business and stake him to a new store and trust him until he was able to repay any amount of money which Burke might need until he was on his feet again.

When Mrs. Burke went away she took with her a letter from Fehr assuring the councilman that he could have all that he needed for the new business venture, and Mrs. Brennan said that she expected that Burke would give out the details of his plans when he returned.

MRS. DOROTHY MARCUS FINALLY QUILTS HUSBAND.

Disposes of Home and Household Effects, Stable and Kennels in Montclair.
LEAVES HER TWO BABIES
Refuses to Say Good-by to Them or Husband—Couldn't Endure Married Life.
Mrs. Dorothy C. Marcus, the young wife of William Elder Marcus, Jr., son of William Elder Marcus, the head of the jewelry firm of Marcus & Co., of Fifth avenue, New York, closed her house at 98 Lloyd road and took her final departure from Montclair yesterday. She left the town without saying good-by to her husband or her two babies, Linda, 2 years, and June, 6 months old. The husband and children are at the home of Mr. Marcus's parents, 206 Upper Montmain avenue, where they have been since July 22 last, when the young wife started society circles in Montclair by leaving her home and sending a note to her husband, who was out of town on a week-end vacation, that she had decided to live apart from them. Mrs. Marcus vanished for three days.

On Thursday, July 25, she reappeared at her home on Lloyd road to the great surprise of the public. She explained that her return was only for a short period and that she would leave Montclair as soon as she had settled her business affairs, which included the sale of her stable of horses, household effects and the establishment of her beloved dogs in homes where they would be well cared for until she again has a permanent home.

All these details were completed yesterday, when a reporter of THE SUN saw Mrs. Marcus.

"Yes, I am going away to-day," said Mrs. Marcus, "to avoid annoyance. I intend to keep my destination secret. I have not decided about the future. I intend to go abroad as soon as I can do so. In Europe I will join my father, George B. Cooksey, whom I have not seen for several months. It is probable that I shall stay with him for a while, but even that I cannot state positively."

"Is there any possibility of reconciliation between my husband and myself? I wish you would not ask that question, for I cannot answer it. During the period that must intervene before we can be divorced on the grounds of desertion, which is two years, anything might occur. But, concerning the situation at present, I can say that my mind is the same as when I returned from California last spring and told Will I couldn't live with him any longer."

Mrs. Marcus denied also that her husband had sought to bring about a reconciliation. It was apparent from her remarks that as far as her husband was concerned, there was absolutely no regret that she was leaving him. When the reporter mentioned Mrs. Marcus remained dry-eyed.

"I know that Linda and June will be well cared for at the home of Mr. Marcus's parents," said the young woman. "So why should I worry about leaving them here? I have affection for them, but it is not great enough to be an unceasing deterrent to me from taking the course I have decided upon."

Mrs. Marcus said she had not been prevented from seeing her little daughters since she severed relations with her husband. It had been proposed that they be taken to the Lloyd roadhouse before she left, but the mother refused this last opportunity to see her children.

"It can do no good," she said to those who made the suggestion this week.

The chief reason for Mrs. Marcus's action is incompatibility. She and her husband were at variance in almost all matters that related to their life in Montclair. The fact that Mrs. Marcus is the possessor of a fortune, while her young husband is wealthy only in prospect, also promoted the dissension developed since the young couple were married at Irvington-on-the-Hudson on June 6, 1908.

Mrs. Marcus is the granddaughter of the late David Dows of the firm of David Dows & Co., of the New York Produce Exchange. She was born in Irvington-on-the-Hudson and when she was 7 years old her family removed to Santa Barbara, Cal. She met Marcus while returning from a trip to Egypt.

Since his wife left him on July 22 Mr. Marcus has not made any statement about the case, but it is believed that at the end of two years he will seek a divorce, charging desertion by his wife.

MRS. GOELET CHANGES PLANS.

ROOSEVELT ASKS HEARING AT ONCE

Would Contradict Archbold Before the Committee To-morrow.
WIRES TO CHAIRMAN
Committee Is Scattered and May Not Be Able to Hear Colonel Now.
EX-PRESIDENT BITTER
Says Oil Man May Sue for Libel After He Gives His Testimony.

WIDER INQUIRY PROPOSED

Senate Debates Till Late at Night Penrose Resolution and Amendments.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 24.—"I have wired to Senator Clapp asking that I be permitted to appear before the committee on Monday," was Col. Roosevelt's answer to-night to the rumors that the Senate committee looking into 1904 Republican campaign contributions had decided to summon the ex-President.

Here is the text of the telegram: "August 24, 1912. Senator M. E. Clapp, Senate Chambers, Washington, D. C. 'As I am not willing that Mr. Archbold's statement about myself should pass without immediate official contradiction, I request the privilege of appearing before your committee on Monday. My engagements are such that it will be the greatest inconvenience to me and to many others if the hearing is deferred to a later date. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'

This telegram was sent, he said, through his publicity manager, O. K. Davis, about 5 o'clock this afternoon and he expected to have word from the Senator who is chairman of the committee some time to-night.

"I do not want Mr. Archbold's testimony to go one day longer than is necessary without official contradiction," he declared in giving the reason for his decision to appear in person before the committee.

When he was told that Mr. Archbold had sailed to-day for Europe, he indicated that he was irritated as well as surprised by the news. It was an inconceivable thing, he said, for the committee to let the Standard Oil man go before the investigation had been carried further.

He maintains that it is up to the committee to examine the relations between Senator Penrose and Mr. Archbold.

Another matter which seemed not to have occurred to Col. Roosevelt was the likelihood of the committee's adjournment until September, when Mr. Archbold is to reappear, and the effect of such a course upon this afternoon's offer of the Colonel to give testimony himself. He said he could not believe that the committee would adjourn at this time.

The former President was not willing to say whether he would go to Washington with the intention of making any new disclosures. Although he declared that his statement of last night covered completely every point raised by Mr. Archbold, it is believed that Col. Roosevelt wishes for an opportunity to protest against the acceptance by the committee of what he calls "hearsay testimony."

Apparently the Colonel believes that the members of that body who are not in league with his enemies have been drawn unwillingly into a conspiracy of which he is the intended victim.

He thinks that certain features of the testimony which have been accepted without documentary or other evidence can best be disposed of by him under oath as a witness.

That the voluntary offer to give testimony at this time caused him great inconvenience the Colonel was inclined to emphasize. And what was more important, he said, was that his plans and movements had already been made public and that any enforced change in them would mean inconvenience also to hundreds and thousands of people throughout the country. It is his present intention to begin the three day Vermont trip on Wednesday next and he has made engagements to speak in the Green Mountain State on the following day. It is not likely, however, that a better opportunity to go to Washington than the present will occur, for during September and the early part of October Col. Roosevelt will be absent on his coast to coast trip.

When seen this evening the Progressive nominee had just returned from a day spent picnicking with Mrs. Roosevelt and his son Archie. He had rowed a dozen miles and portaged his boat across Lloyds Neck, a narrow peninsula dividing his home waters. The Colonel was hot and dusty, but he seemed happy until the question of Senatorial inquiry was introduced, when he assumed a bitterly aggressive tone.

"Mr. Archbold is reported to have said that he would bring suit against you for libel, Colonel," someone volunteered. Not the shadow of a smile crossed his grimly set face as he responded:

"He will have a chance to sue after I have given my testimony." He added with slow emphasis: "If Archbold sues he will have an enjoyable time."

Col. Roosevelt has been stirred into a vindictive mood by the charges which have been showered upon him during the last few days. Although the controversy was none of his starting, he says he is now determined to see it to the end. He will carry the war into the enemy's camp.
